How to Counsel from an 'Holistic Perspective'

Why is it so important that 'Counsellors' attend this informative, experiential and interactive workshop?

Because:

Counsellors are often in the 'unique position' of being the Primary Contact Practitioner for so many with mild to moderate emotional disturbances, however if they are not aware of concomitant underlying causative and/or contributing factors, they can fail to be as effective as they could be in helping their client.

I believe that a counsellor, so educated will be better equipped to holistically assess a client and refer them (when appropriate) for adjunctive treatment that will compliment their counselling.

This workshop is designed so that the interactive content comes from a Counsellor's perspective as to what the Client presents with. Then the investigation expands to rule in or other contributing or causative factors from a neuroscience, physiological, environmental or nutritional point of view.

This seminar will cover both the seminar I have presented for teachers titled The Influence of Nutritional Factors on Learning Disabilities and Behavioural Problems which covers Hypoglycaemia, allergies, food intolerances, chemical sensitivities, systemic toxicity, ADD, ADHD etc. Also covered are Depression, Anxiety, Phobias, Stress, PTSD, Schizophrenia, Addictions, etc.

Strategies you will learn are Coco's Pulse Test, Muscle testing, Holistic Case Assessment, practical techniques and strategies that you can teach your clients; what blood tests to consider; process for referral.
